

A majority of business owners use their own savings as start-up capital rather than loans

